Applications are open for the New European Bauhaus Prizes 2025!

After over 5,000 applications received in total for the past editions, the New European Bauhaus Prizes will this year award 22 exemplary innovative projects and concepts that represent sustainability, aesthetics, and inclusiveness.

For the first time, the 2025 Prizes edition will have a special focus on housing: the NEB “Affordable Housing Prizes”. Four projects will be awarded for completed projects in the EU contributing to the EU’s efforts to improve housing affordability in line with the NEB values and principles.

The 2025 NEB Prizes will reward existing projects as well as concepts developed by young talents under four categories:

1. Reconnecting with nature;
2. Regaining a sense of belonging;
3. Prioritizing the places and people that need it the most;
4. Shaping a circular industrial ecosystem and supporting life-cycle thinking.

In each of the four categories, two parallel competition strands are established:

- Strand A: “New European Bauhaus Champions” will be devoted to existing and completed projects with clear and positive results.
- Strand B: “New European Bauhaus Rising Stars” will be dedicated to concepts submitted by young talents aged 30 years old or younger. The concepts can be at different stages of development, from ideas with a clear plan to the prototype level.

The 2025 Prizes, supported by the Cohesion Policy, will be awarded to 22 winners and runners-up in total, who will receive a monetary prize up to €30,000, as well as a communication package to help them further develop and promote their projects and concepts.

Submit your project or idea now! The deadline is 14 February 2025 at 19:00 CET. To learn more about the eligibility criteria, consult the NEB Prizes 2025 guide for applications and visit the New European Bauhaus Prizes platform.

Special parallel award in 2025: the NEB Boost for Small Municipalities

In parallel with the New European Bauhaus Prizes, we have launched applications for the NEB Boost for Small Municipalities. This new prize, with the support of the European Parliament, will reward ongoing NEB-aligned projects, providing them the opportunity to address early-stage challenges.

The NEB Boost for Small Municipalities will recognize 20 projects aligned with the NEB values and principles that demonstrate a strong community engagement. This initiative not only celebrates the exceptional potential of these projects but also brings much-needed visibility and recognition to the municipalities driving them forward.

Targeting municipalities in rural areas or those with populations under 20,000 inhabitants, the NEB Boost seeks to acknowledge the critical role smaller communities play in the New European Bauhaus movement. Their involvement is fundamental to ensuring that the movement remains inclusive and accessible to all.

Eligible projects must focus on transforming the built environment, including the renovation, and adaptation of buildings and public spaces.

The 20 winners of the NEB Boost will each receive a €30,000 prize, along with a tailored communication package from the Commission to further amplify their achievements.

Apply now with your project! The deadline is 14 February 2025 at 19:00 CET. For more information about the eligibility criteria, have a look at the NEB Boost guide for applications and visit the New European Bauhaus Prizes platform.
